

1. INSTITUTIONAL IDENTITY & OVERVIEW

Samanwaya Nepal is a premier, youth-centered, not-for-profit institution headquartered in Kathmandu, Nepal. Operating under the Company Act, 2063 as a non-profit distributing company and fully affiliated with the Social Welfare Council (SWC), the organization was founded on the fundamental conviction that sustainable social transformation occurs when young people are structurally empowered to co-design the civic systems they inherit.

The term "Samanwaya" carries profound significance, translating to coordination, systemic harmony, and cross-sectoral collaboration—the deliberate art of unifying diverse forces toward a shared, constructive purpose. This philosophy guides our entire institutional architecture. In a deeply multi-ethnic, multilingual nation navigating a modern federal landscape, fostering continuous dialogue across communities, generations, and state institutions is an urgent civic necessity.

Samanwaya Nepal operates strategically at the intersection of youth empowerment, democratic participation, inclusive governance, and community development. We build adaptive platforms where young citizens from across varying geographies, ethnicities, genders, and socioeconomic backgrounds converge to deliberate on shared challenges, cultivate resilient leadership capabilities, and execute collective local action.

2. STRATEGIC FRAMEWORK & CORE VISION

Strategic Vision

To realize an inclusive, accountable, and resilient democratic society where all young people irrespective of gender, ethnicity, geography, or socioeconomic background possess the agency, platform, and equity to shape the policies and decisions that govern their lives and communities.

Strategic Mission

To fortify youth participation across democratic governance structures and safeguard systemic social inclusion by building meaningful, localized platforms for leadership incubation, progressive civic literacy, grass-roots community organizing, and evidence-based cross-sectoral collaboration.

Our Global Strategic Alignment

Samanwaya Nepal explicitly aligns its programmatic interventions with the United Nations 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, engineering projects to drive measurable progress across five primary Sustainable Development Goals:

- SDG 5: Gender Equality – By dismantling systemic barriers to leadership for women, young girls, and gender minorities in public life.
- SDG 10: Reduced Inequalities – By centering the agency of Dalit communities, indigenous Janajatis, and intersectionally marginalized populations.
- SDG 13: Climate Action – By equipping local youth networks to design and lead environmental adaptation frameworks in vulnerable eco-zones.
- SDG 16: Peace, Justice, and Strong Institutions – By promoting transparency, rule of law, open data access, and non-partisan public dialogue.
- SDG 17: Partnerships for the Goals – By bridging the gap between grassroots civil society, the private sector, and international development agencies.

3. OUR OPERATIONAL MODALITY

We deliver sustainable impact by shifting away from obsolete, top-down development models. Instead, Samanwaya Nepal utilizes a progressive, four-tier operational framework to execute its strategic goals from grassroots communities to global policy arenas:

1. Incubate (Local Level): We design open-source civic toolkits, digital literacy modules, and leadership curriculums, delivering them directly to municipal youth networks to build long-term local capacity.
2. Deliberate (Sub-National Level): We activate secure, cross-sectoral assembly spaces where citizens, local government executives, and media practitioners can collaborate on localized structural challenges.
3. Advocate (National Level): We translate raw grassroots field data and applied research into actionable policy white papers to influence national legal, regulatory, and governance reforms.

4. Amplify (International Level): We connect Nepal's youth-led innovations with global governance platforms, transnational networks, and international forums. By participating in cross-border knowledge exchanges, global advocacy coalitions, and international seminars, we amplify domestic youth voices on global stages and bring international best practices back to local communities.

4. STRATEGIC PROGRAM AREAS

Our work is organized around eight interconnected strategic areas derived directly from our formal statutory mandate. Each area represents a vital pillar of our change framework:

1. Democratic Governance & Civic Engagement

Establishing sustainable pathways for youth engagement in public administration from municipal ward levels to national policy consultations. Our programs include civic literacy modules, mock parliamentary sessions, and youth-government roundtables that champion freedom of expression, electoral integrity, and media independence.

2. Social Inclusion, Equity, & Justice

Inclusion is the foundation of our operational design. We actively amplify the leadership pipelines of Dalit communities, indigenous Janajatis, women, persons with disabilities, and underserved frontier populations by centering programming entirely around their localized priorities.

3. Leadership Incubation & Institutional Capacity Building

Moving beyond traditional training, we combine formal skill-building with experiential community organizing. We provide specialized tracks in public policy fluency, project management, and ethical decision-making while strengthening the compliance frameworks of grassroots youth networks.

4. Human Rights & Rule of Law

We engage in evidence-based accountability tracking across all three tiers of Nepal's federal system. Key priorities include public procurement monitoring, access to information (RTI) implementation, civic space preservation, legal literacy, and community-led human rights documentation.

5. Non-Partisan Deliberation & Collaboration

We curate secure, non-partisan arenas to bridge political, ethnic, and regional polarization. Through multi-stakeholder symposia and inter-municipal working exchanges, we equip emerging leaders with the necessary habits of systematic listening, policy negotiation, and consensus-building.

6. Climate Action & Environmental Sustainability

Addressing deep climate vulnerabilities, we integrate environmental consciousness into local planning. Our initiatives focus on community-based ecosystem conservation, municipal climate adaptation frameworks, green economy advocacy, and climate justice campaigns led by youth.

7. Digital Literacy & Applied Research

We bridge the digital divide affecting rural populations through technology bootcamps, e-governance tracking modules, and online education deployment. Concurrently, we lead rigorous academic research within the social sciences to publish policy briefs that inform national public discourse.

8. Livelihoods, Culture, & Community Development

We anchor democratic stability alongside sustainable local economic growth by supporting modern agricultural extension models, cooperative supply-chain networks, and public health awareness. Alongside this, we work to document and preserve indigenous knowledge networks and multi-ethnic performing arts.
